

OLLIE JAMES ELECTED PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

PARKER IS ELECTED OVER BRYAN BY A CLOSE VOTE

THE NEBRASKA LEADER ALMOST STAMPEDES DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION WITHOUT BEING A CANDIDATE.

NO SIGNS OF BITTERNESS MANIFESTED.

THE FIELD ORGANIZED THE BODY WITH THE GREATEST OF DIFFICULTY AND BRYAN WILL DOMINATE EVERY MOVE.

Baltimore, June 26.—At the session of the convention to-day Ollie James, of Kentucky, was selected as permanent chairman and the convention adjourned until 8 p. m.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

Baltimore, Md., June 26.—William Jennings Bryan Tuesday consented to make the race for temporary chairman only after all efforts to effect a compromise had failed.

At the close of the ringing speech by Bryan in which he defended his attitude and for which he was wildly cheered by the convention, Senator Kern, of Indiana, was recognized. He made a stirring plea for harmony and said that he believed that both Mr. Bryan and Mr. Parker should withdraw their names and that some compromise candidate should be agreed upon in the interest of harmony. He assured the convention that Mr. Bryan would consent to this. He suggested the names of James, O'Gorman or any nomination as chairman and balloting on Parker and Bryan began.

The Clark, Underwood and Harmon forces seemed to be uniting on Parker and the vote resulted Parker 579, Bryan 510, scattering 3.

In behalf of Judge Parker it later was stated that as he had not sought the office at the hands of the national committee and had taken no part in the fight, he felt he had no right to withdraw.

Mr. Bryan left the convention hall by a rear entrance soon after the vote on the temporary chairmanship was announced and resumed conferences in his rooms. Later he said:

"The vote in convention shows the attitude of the convention and my speech shows my view on the subject. I have no statement to make. I await developments without impatience. I do not know of anything that needs to be added."

The Nebraskan did not attend the night session of the convention to hear Judge Parker's speech, but remained in his rooms to attend to correspondence and confer with friends. Later Mr. Bryan purposed joining in the deliberations of the platform committee.

IN CHEERFUL MOOD.

Mr. Bryan apparently was in a cheerful humor notwithstanding his defeat. He carefully refrained from giving any suggestion as to his future course in the convention.

BULLET TAKEN FROM BRAIN

Dr. Robert Burt Performed A Delicate Operation At Infirmary This Morning.

Through a skillfully performed operation by Dr. Robert T. Burt at the colored infirmary in this city today, the life of Rassie Washington, colored, who received a bullet in his head Sunday a week ago in a row near Edgote, may be saved.

The missile struck Washington squarely above the left eye, going straight in and there was seemingly no hope for his recovery. After lingering in an unconscious condition at the infirmary, where he was taken a week ago, Dr. Burt decided upon an operation. A solid piece of the skull bone the size of a half-dollar coin, several smaller fragments of bone, a liberal part of an old woolen hat which the negro wore and the flattened bullet, which had driven this assortment to his brain, were removed and the patient immediately regained consciousness and called for water.—Leaf Chronicle.

LOOKS LIKE

Post Office Building Is to Be Commenced Soon.

About the first of next month Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Quick, who have been occupying the Dr. Gunn house on East Ninth street, will move into the J. H. Anderson house on South Main street. After the death of Dr. Gunn, Mrs. Gunn sold the ground to the Government. Mrs. Gunn still owns the building and has been renting it to Mrs. Quick, who conducted a boarding house many years previous to the sale. A condition of the purchase of the ground by the Government was that at any time possession of the ground was to be given. Congress recently made an appropriation of $10,000 with which to begin the erection of the building in the way of putting in a foundation, etc. So it is reasonable to presume that soon something will be doing as a starter for a Government building, after a score of years' talk and effort.

JOHN W. JONES

Prominent Citizen of South Christian Dies of Apoplexy.

John W. Jones, a prominent citizen of Edgote, died Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. J. A. B. Word, where he was on a visit. He had for some time been spending most of his time at Dawson, but had come home on a visit to his daughters. He expired of apoplexy.

Mr. Jones was born at Keysburg, Ky. He served through the civil war as a confederate soldier. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. D. Elliott and Mrs. Word.

He was 74 years of age and had lived in this county for 50 years. He was buried at Clarksville yesterday at noon.

Mr. Jones was a man of substantial worth and high standing as a citizen and was a gallant soldier of the Lost Cause.

MRS. I. B. WILFORD

Dies in Bowling Green After Surgical Operation.

Mrs. Addie Wilford, wife of I. B. Wilford, president of the Wilford Milling Co., Bowling Green, died in a hospital at that place Tuesday, following an operation for carcinoma. She was 64 years old and a native of Cadiz. Mrs. Addie Major, one of the daughters of the deceased, died in this city a few weeks ago after an operation for a similar disease.

Mrs. Foster, of McLean College, will shortly go to Cincinnati to spend her vacation. While there she will receive vocal instruction.

MANY MERRY JUNE BRIDES

Cupid and Hymen Close The Month of Roses With Many Triumphs.

WEDDINGS ON EVERY SIDE.

Popular Young Couples Take Nuptial Vows In City and County.

Mr. William Arthur Cornette and Miss Mary Johnson were married at 8:30 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents on North Main street, Rev. A. R. Kasey, of the Methodist church, officiating.

The parlors were tastefully decorated for the occasion and a pretty solo was sung by Miss Annie Tobin. Mrs. E. W. Clark played the wedding march. The bridal couple were preceded by Mr. H. H. Chittenden, the best man, and Miss Carrie Johnson, the bride's sister, the maid of honor.

Following the ceremony that united the happy pair, they departed on the 10:20 northbound train for Chicago and a visit of two weeks on the Lakes. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping as soon as arrangements can be made. The bride is the oldest daughter of Sheriff Lowe Johnson and has been a deputy in her father's office for the last two and a half years and has made a reputation with two State administrations for efficiency in the clerical work of the office. Mr. Cornette was formerly in the tobacco business, but is now engaged in insurance work, at which he has been very successful. He is a fine young business man and has many friends. He is to be congratulated upon winning so lovable and charming a bride.

Richardson-Stevenson.

The marriage of Dr. T. J. Richardson, of Little Rock, Ark., and Miss Mollie Brown Stevenson, of Bennington, occurred yesterday morning at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. E. C. Stevenson. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, who accompanied by his wife, arrived from Little Rock Tuesday afternoon to attend the wedding of their son. Dr. Richardson and his bride left at once for a two weeks' bridal tour and they will be at home after July 10 at Little Rock.

The bride is a daughter of the late J. E. Stevenson and is a near relative of former vice president Adlai E. Stevenson. She is quite pretty and possesses numerous accomplishments. She taught in the county schools for several sessions and has been teaching in Paducah for the past four years. The groom is a graduate of Vanderbilt and practiced dentistry at Lafayette for several months before going to Little Rock about a year ago.

Noe-Buckner.

Mr. Albert D. Noe, Jr., and Miss Bet Pendleton Buckner were married at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the bride's home on South Virginia street. It was a quiet home wedding, only a few relatives and intimate friends being present. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. C. H. H. Branch, of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The bride was attired in a handsome blue going-away gown and Mr. and Mrs. Noe left at once for the L. & N. depot and took the Dixie Flyer for a trip to Chicago and the Lakes. They will return in a week or ten days and be at home at Hotel Latham.

Mr. Noe is the junior partner of the hotel firm of A. D. Noe & Son and has been associated with his father in the management of Hotel Latham for several years. His bride is a daughter of Mr. H. C. Buckner and is one of the city's prettiest and most popular girls.

NOTED FARM LECTURER

Secured For Two Free Lectures On Next Monday, July The First.

HE IS AN EXPERT IN HIS LINE

Addresses Are Brought Through The Efforts Of Business Men's Association.

Farmers should not have to be reminded of the two lectures to be delivered here next Monday morning and afternoon, the first at 10 o'clock and the second at 1 o'clock.

Through the efforts of the Business Men's Association, John W. Newman, State Commissioner of Agriculture, has engaged Mr. Lowell Roubush, of New Richmond, Ohio, to deliver his famous lecture on "Noxious Weeds and How to Destroy Them." His other lecture is about "Insect, Pests and Their Enemies."

The farmers of this section should and can well afford to leave their farms, even at this busy time, to come to town Monday and attend these lectures, for they are for their particular benefit. Practically there is nothing in them for the merchant or the other business men, but the Business Men's Association, keeping step with the spirit of the times, took this matter in hand for the good of the farming community. Of course the members of the Association know that "as profits the farmer, so profits everybody," but they have assumed the initiative in this matter for the farmer, and he should show his appreciation.

Mr. Roubush is a farmer himself and "practices what he preaches." His ability to talk on the subject he has chosen is well known. From a gentleman who has heard him repeatedly we learn that he has lectured in nearly every State of the Union and always demands pay for his services. His expenses are paid by Mr. Newman and both lectures will be free to everybody. Ladies who have trouble in chicken raising are especially invited to come and bring their poultry troubles with them. Mr. Roubush will give them suggestions that be will profitable. Any questions on [CONTINUED ON FOURTH PAGE.]

Pollard-Garrott.

J. W. Pollard, a young Montgomery county, Tenn., planter who resides near St. Bethlehem, and Miss Kathleen Garrott, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Walton Garrott, of the Oak Grove neighborhood, were married at 7 o'clock last night. The event occurred at the home of Mr. Ed Garrott, grandfather of the bride. Rev. L. B. English was the officiating minister.

Gardner-Tanner.

Mr. Jesse B. Gardner and Miss Lillian Estelle Tanner, daughter of Mrs. E. G. Tanner of Nashville, were married last evening at eight o'clock in Nashville. The bride will be pleasantly remembered here as the maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Catherine France last summer.

Brown-Conn.

Prof. B. F. Brown, superintendent of the Pembroke schools, and Miss Catherine Conn, of Hazlehurst, Miss., were married last night at the First Baptist Church, Hazlehurst. The young people will be at home after July 6 at Pembroke.

Cranor-Adams.

Claud Cranor and Miss Beatrice Adams, young people living near Crofton, were married in the city Tuesday night. Rev. J. B. Foster, of the Universalist Church, performed the ceremony.

TOWN FULL OF YOUNG LADIES

Over 100 Visitors Attending Epworth League Sessions This Week.

A THREE DAYS' MEETING

Six O'clock Sunrise Meeting Largely Attended Yesterday Morning.

This has been a busy week in Hopkinsville. The Chautauqua has brought many people to the city and the crowd has been greatly augmented by the Conference of the Epworth Leagues. Visitors began arriving Monday afternoon and up to 10 o'clock yesterday delegations from different sections of the Louisville Conference district put in their appearance. They were met at the trains by a committee and assigned homes during their stay.

The first meeting was held Tuesday night in the audience room of the Methodist Church, the address of welcome being made by the pastor, Rev. A. R. Kasey. Response by E. O. Harbin, President of the Conference. This was followed by an address by Dr. U. G. Foote, of Louisville. His theme was "The Pearl of the Antilles"—we liked to have said "the Pennyrite," but Dr. Foote must have forgotten where he was.

The visitors were spiritually uplifted at the sunrise prayer meeting held at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. There were probably 75 in attendance. Then came a Bible study in which the delegates freely took active part. A Kentuckian representative dropped in and was impressed with the ease with which young people arose and spoke of the importance of daily reading the Holy Word. One young man said that he carries his Bible wherever he goes. Feeling its touch on his person often keeps him from saying and doing things that are wrong. Before the adjournment a pledge which he read will no doubt be the pledge of the conference.

At 9 o'clock a conference on Evangelism was held, conducted by Rev. Joseph Chandler of Horse Cave.

The program for yesterday was a fine one. At night a large crowd heard the address of Rev. J. Marvin Culbreth, of Nashville.

Below we give the program for today and tomorrow.

FRIDAY JUNE 28.

6:00 a. m. to 11:00 a. m. Daily Schedule.

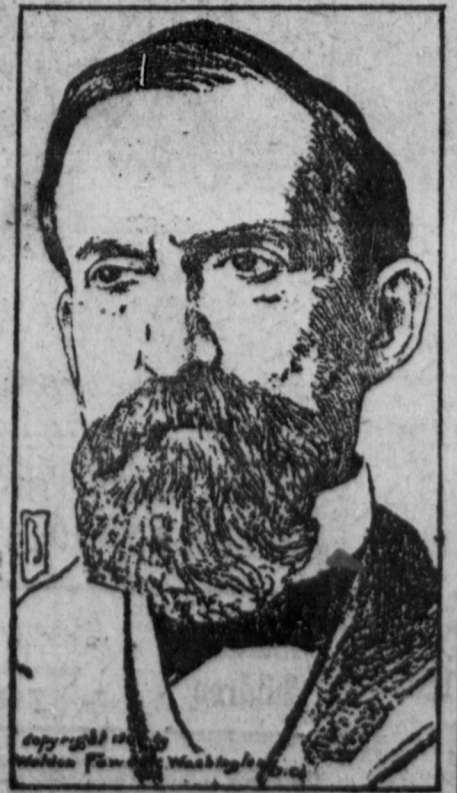

11:00 a. m. Address "Why I Am a Methodist" Rev. Samuel M. Miller, Bowling Green, Ky.

3:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. Daily Schedule.

8:00 p. m. Address "Evangelism and Extension" Rev. Fitzgerald S. Parker, D. D., Gen. Secretary of the Epworth League, Nashville, Tenn. Testimony Service.

Killed by Lightning.

During the electric storm between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday S. E. Dillard, near Gracey, was killed and a negro man employed on the farm was so badly shocked that, at last information, it was not known whether he would recover or not. The negro's name is Somers Allison. Mr. Dillard was better known as "Pete." He leaves a wife and four children and was working on the farm of Clifton A. Clark.

JOHN W. KERN.

other good man. He waited for a reply from Mr. Parker or his backers, but when none came Senator Kern proceeded to place before the convention for temporary chairman the name of William Jennings Bryan.

After the cheers, following the presentation of Bryan's name, had subsided, Mr. Bryan accepted the

The Roosevelt plan calls for the organization of an entirely new party the support of the substantial part of the organizations which were with him in the campaign of the last four months. It is his opinion that the pressure of public sentiment will be sufficient in some states to bring this about and that while there may be numerous defections, it will be possible to fill the gaps with volunteers.

CLEVER WORK OF FORGERS

Lithograph Process is Skillfully Used to Make Bogus British Bank Notes.

A sensational discovery has just been made in Dundee, Scotland. In a bank in the northern district of the city the teller had handed to him over the counter a considerable sum of money, including a number of £1 notes. In counting these, one, by its thickness, aroused his suspicions as to its genuineness, and on having it examined by an expert, it was pronounced to be a forgery.
The note was lithographed instead of engraved, but so skillfully was this done as to defy detection except by the experienced eye; there were three printings in red, blue and black colors, the date was May, 1908, and the two signatures were in black.
The appearance of the signatures gave confirmation to the idea of forgery. In a genuine note the one signature is printed and the other autograph, while in the fraudulent note both were lithographed. Naturally the discovery caused something of the nature of a panic among the bank officials. No time was lost in apprising the authorities at headquarters. How many of the bogus notes have been passed is, of course, unknown, but it is feared that the number may represent a large sum.

GOOD AND BAD BACTERIA.

There are good as well as bad bacteria. While bacteria bear, in popular estimation, an evil reputation by reason of the part they play in so many fatal diseases, not all the bacteria in the world are working against man and his interests. Indeed, some of them are his potent and useful allies.

The minute organisms, for instance, that manufacture nitric acid as a food plant are of a most benefi-cent kind. One set of bacteria busy themselves in converting ammonia found in the soil into nitrous acid.
There their work ends and, so far as the plants are concerned, it has been ineffective, since plants cannot feed upon nitrous acid.

At this point, however, another set of bacteria come forward and from the nitrous acid produce nitric acid, from which plants are readily able to derive nourishment. Still other bacteria, living in the roots of certain plants, enable these plants to assimilate nitrogen derived from the air, and thus, instead of exhausting the soil in which they grow, actually enrich it.—Harper's Weekly.

A FINE LINE OF COPY- RIGHTED ART CALENDARS.

The plans for your advertising campaign this year should by all means include a handsome Art Advertising Calendar for 1913. We have secured the exclusive agency for the Copyrighted Calendars produced by the A. M. Collins Mfg. Co., of Philadelphia.

This is one of the largest and most substantial Calendar houses in the United States, and the quality of their line is superior to that of any ever shown in this section.

This line will be handled exclusively by us in Christian and Trigg counties. It includes a great number and variety of subjects in full color, as well as some hand colored pictures of exceptional beauty.

The samples for 1913 will be in our hands shortly, and we shall be glad to show them to you at an early date. MAKE NO PLANS FOR YOUR 1913 CALENDAR UNTIL YOU SEE THIS EXTRAORDINARY LINE.

Every Month Near Death.

Foster, Ark.—Mrs. Fannie Ellis, of Foster, says: "I was sick for seven years, and half the time could not stand on my feet. Every month I was very near death. I tried Cardui, and in two months, I was cured, and am now stout and healthy. My friends all ask me now what cured me. My looks are a testimonial to Cardui." No matter how serious or long standing the trouble, Cardui will help you. It is a mild, vegetable, tonic remedy, adopted especially to relieve and cure the common womanly ailments. It relieves womanly pains and restores womanly strength. Try Cardui.

Miss Cartwright's Constancy

"If Amelia Cartwright would pay a little more attention to the love of the living and less to that of the dead, she might be happier, and save Amos Tilghast from wearing his heart out."

Mrs. Lowell stabbed her needle viciously into the sock she was mending and rocked violently.

"Amelia has a constant nature," said Ann Briggs.

"Constancy is all right if there's any reason for it," said Mrs. Lowell, "but everybody knows that Charles Burroughs wasn't true to her before he died. He was engaged to two girls at once."

"But Amelia doesn't know it," said Miss Ann, gently, "and it would hurt her to know."

"Well, wouldn't it be better for her to be hurt a little and get waked up to the fact that it is Amos who has really loved her all these years and who deserves to get her?"

"Well, I don't know," said Miss Ann. "I hate to see Amos hurt and I hate to see Amelia hurt. Love is love, and I guess most of us have to suffer for it."

"There she goes, now," said Mrs. Lowell, glancing out of the window. "I knew she would. Every Saturday she's off to the cemetery with a wreath of pink flowers. Sometimes it's roses and sometimes it's sweet peas and sometimes it's verbenas. But it's always pink."

"Poor thing," said Miss Ann.

"That's what hurts Amos so," said Mrs. Lowell. "He knows Amelia hasn't enough to live on and he has plenty. And I think he knows, too, that she would love him if she would let herself. He said to me not long ago: 'Aunt Carrie, when I talk to her about it, she just cries and says, "Please don't. Poor Charles thought I had it in me to be constant—and I want to be faithful to him—I want to be faithful."'"

"There goes Amos now," said Miss Ann. "Do you know he's got some pink roses in that paper? I believe he's on his way to the cemetery."

"Well, he'll meet Amelia there," said Mrs. Lowell, "and I guess she'll be touched to see that he has remembered Charles."

But Amelia, sitting forlornly at the foot of her lover's grave, was to meet some one else before Amos, for a slender little woman approached and asked, "Is this the grave of Charles Burroughs?"

"Yes," said Amelia.

The girl unwound yards of waxed paper from about a magnificent wreath. It was evidently made up by a city florist, of pink hot-house roses, and valley lilies, with maiden-hair fern veiling the whole.

"Oh," gasped Amelia, "how beautiful!"

"He always loved pink," said the girl.

Amelia looked up startled. "You knew that?" she asked.

"Yes," said the girl. "When I wore pink bows on my hair he always admired them. And there was a little pink lawn dress that he made me wear the night he left me."

"He died ten years ago," said Amelia. "It is a long time—did you know him—just before he died?"

The girl nodded. "He lived out west in the same town where I taught. And we were engaged." She did not see Amelia's start of surprise. "He came east—just to see his folks, he said, and then he was to come back—and we were to be married."

"Then he died," the girl's voice went on, "and all these years I have wanted to come and lay a wreath on his grave. I saved my money so that I might. And—now I am here—and I can't bear it."

Looking on the other's grief, Amelia wondered why she was unmoved. She wondered, too, at a certain lightness of heart. She felt free—free to live her own life, to love as she would.

She saw Amos coming up the hill. She bent over the sobbing girl. "He loved you," she said tensely; "you have that to comfort you."

Then she went swiftly down the hill and met Amos. "I don't just know what has happened to me," she said. "Take me away, Amos, take me where nobody can see me cry."

He led her to a place screened by a row of chairs. "What is it, dear heart?" he asked, tenderly.

She told him. "Was he—as fickle as that?" she demanded.

"Everybody knew it," he said, "but you."

"And no one told me. Oh, Amos, I feel so sorry for that girl. Somehow I don't feel sorry for myself. Perhaps I've been just clinging to a dream. But she knew him and lived close to him and, oh, I hope he loved her best. It would be so tragic if—she is mourning a false lover, Amos."

"And you?" Amos asked.

"I found out after he came east that he wasn't all that I had thought he was—but I thought he loved me—and it seemed so pitiful for him to be up here and alone—with no one to care—and so I tried to be true."

There was a light in Amos's eyes as he bent over her. "And now that he has some one else to love him—can't you pity me—Amelia?"

"I declare," said Mrs. Lowell, a month later. "Amos says Amelia is going to marry him. And when I asked him his favorite color, he laughed and said it was blue."

CURRENT COMMENT

CREAM OF NEWS COMPILED AND COLLECTED FROM ALL SOURCES

The Democratic candidates for Congress in the First district met in joint debate at Murray Monday, but other joint debates in Calloway county have been called off and Col. Hendrick is speaking alone. The Hendrick supporters are claiming Calloway by a large majority.

Business men of Honolulu, Hawaii, are preparing to build a modern hotel on the reef off Diamond Head, where the naval station is located. The most interesting feature of the hotel will be a glass-walled shaft which will extend down into the sea, allowing the guests to descend and observe the wonderful sea life in that locality. A page view of the shaft as projected appears in the July Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Archeologists have made a series of remarkable finds in the ruins of Pompeii within the last year. The most interesting discovery was the body of a man found in such a position that the scientists are convinced he was attempting to escape the rain of ashes and lava by climbing a tree when the city was destroyed 2,000 years ago. The street which has just been uncovered has been called the "Street of Abundance." A wine shop was found with many of the vessels intact and some unusual signs and frescoes were also discovered. Pictures of these "finds" appear in the July Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Nothing Doing.

The June term of Circuit Court ends Saturday, really it has already been numbered with the past. A few equity cases occupied the time of the court yesterday but they were not of interest to anyone except the litigants.

Bride Only Fourteen.

J. W. Wright, a carpenter, was united in marriage with Miss Ethel May Allen Friday. Mr. Wright is 35 years old, while his wife is but fourteen. The girl's father, J. M. Allen, gave his consent to the marriage. Both live here.—Madisonville Hustler.

Echo Of Liquor Fight.

Mayfield, Ky., June 25.—After Rufus Billington had mortally wounded Alvin Wheeler, a tobacco planter of Vealsburg, a few miles from here Monday, Wheeler's son shot Billington. Wheeler died a few minutes after he had been shot. Wheeler and Billington had been at odds since Wheeler attempted to check the liquor traffic in this part of the State.

NOTED FARM LECTURER.

agriculture, horticulture, animal husbandry, the raising of poultry or the dairy business will be cheerfully answered.

In addition to the above topics, Mr. Roubush has a magnificent lecture, entitled "Uncle Sam's Land of the Midnight Sun." This may seem a little incongruous at first but let it be borne in mind that the lecturer has been in the arctic regions. In 1881 he joined a relief expedition as geologist to the North Pole and his experiences are related in a most interesting manner. His party reached a point nearer to the pole than had any other party been up to the claimed discoveries of Dr. Cook and Capt. Perry. But at the arctic mouth of Behring strait the vessel of the discoverers was wrecked and Mr. Roubush was the only one of the nineteen men not lost. So he knows of what he talks about.

It is not yet determined as to whether this lecture will be delivered here, but efforts are being made to secure it. Should it be it will be free to all and will be of interest to everybody.

Automobile Pumps Water.

The owner of a ranch in California recently built a large storage reservoir for irrigation purposes, and adopted a novel scheme for pumping into it, says the July Popular Mechanics Magazine. He runs his automobile into position, and makes a belt connection with a rotary pump by means of a large band wheel attached to the driving axle outside one of the rear wheels. The statement is made that water is pumped at the rate of 250 gal. per minute by this arrangement. The storage reservoir will hold 500,000 gal.

DR. KENNER DEAD.

Popular Physician Passes Away After Two Months' Illness.

Dr. Alex G. Kenner died at an early hour Tuesday morning at the home of his son, Mr. L. R. Kenner, on South Campbell street. He had been ill for several weeks, suffering from a complication of diseases. He was 70 years old and was born near Fairview. For many years he had been practicing medicine and he had been a resident of this city for sixteen years.

The deceased was a member of the Christian church and a Confederate veteran.

His funeral services were held yesterday morning by Rev. H. D. Smith and the interment took place in Riverside Cemetery.

Seventeen Dead, Eleven Missing.

Buffalo, June 25.—Every hour today added to the toll of dead in last night's accident at Eagle Park, Grand Island, when fifty feet of an excursion dock collapsed and dropped 100 persons into the Niagara river. The semi-darkness, the ten-mile current of the river at that point and the confusion served to cover up for a time the full extent of the catastrophe. Up to tonight seventeen bodies had been recovered and identified and there was a list of eleven more who were known to have been at the park and had not yet been accounted for.

Held In Contempt.

Washington, June 26.—Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Secretary Morrison, of the Federation of Labor, were held in contempt of court by Justice Wright, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. They will appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States again.

LARGER GROWS THE CROWD

Chautauqua Features More Interesting as the Closing Day Approach.

LECTURE THIS MORNING.

The Magnificent Band of Bohunir Kryl Delighted Everybody.

Let nothing keep you away from the Chautauqua tent today and to night. If you do you will miss one of the best features of the course. The lecture "I am McLaren," this morning can not fail to please you. It alone is worth the price of admission, and the concert to follow is one of the best you will ever have an opportunity of hearing.

This afternoon the entertainment will open with a concert by the Mendelssohn Male Quartet. Be there on time if you want to hear something great.

Then follows Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh in his famous lecture, "Traitors to Justice." Judge Kavanagh has attained national fame in his presentation of reforms in court procedure and law enforcement. His ideas of punishment for a murderer have attracted the widest attention and he will spend the entire court vacation in bringing about the reforms he stands for.

Tonight the Mendelssohn Quartette will give another concert. Edward Reno, the rapid fire magician, will afterwards amaze the audience by his legerdemain. Mr. Reno occupies first position in his line of entertainments, and after having been before the public for 32 years stands without a peer in doing incredible things and letting no one know how. He has traveled all over the world, even performing before audiences in India, Syria and Egypt.

Tomorrow is another of the biggest days and the program is arranged so that the day will close with a fitting climax as night comes on.

The morning lecture, after the Boy Scouts, will be on "Stanley in Africa." This is one of Dr. Colledge's best lectures. He speaks from experience as he was in Africa three years with the immortal Stanley. He has not only been a member of the Royal Geological Society of England for years, but was a boyhood friend of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Friday afternoon will open up with the concert by the Anita Ladies' Orchestra. The concert alone will repay anyone for the time spent and the money expended. Every number is a musical gem.

Then comes the incomparable Opie Read, author, philosopher and wit. Mr. Read has probably been here before, but if he has it was back in the eighties and but few of the present generation heard him. There has never been but one Mark Twain and there will never be another Opie Read. Tall and commanding, resolute and courageous, he may be said to be in a class by himself when claiming the interest of the world in any manner he may adopt. He will give his great lecture, "Scarecrows."

Friday night will be "Joy Night" and the Chautauqua closes. A novel program will be given. The different features have not been published, but Mr. Frank Whitney, the general manager, has given out a promise of a great entertainment that will please everybody, and what Whitney says may be relied upon. Let's have a grand wind up and secure the Chautauqua for next season.

Lights Went Out.

Guthrie, Ky., June 26.—In a shooting bee at a carnival Saturday night, Marshal Joe Burrus was shot in the left arm by Dick McGee, of Trenton, and McGee was shot in the thigh by some unknown person. Twenty-five shots had been fired when the carnival manager switched off the lights.

COW-EASE

RELIEVES HORSES AND CATTLE FROM FLIES.

A liquid preparation carefully compounded from non-poisonous materials. It is of the right consistency for applying with a sprayer and it will not gum the hair or blister the skin.

Every dairyman and every owner of live stock should use Cow-Ease during the summer season. Its use is a humane act, and it also saves money for the stock owner, as a herd of milch cows that are sprayed regularly through the summer months will yield on the average from 10 to 20 per cent more milk than they would if Cow-Ease was not applied.

In the case of horses—a mettlesome horse will lose flesh in fly time, whereas if he is sprayed lightly with Cow-Ease before driving, he will keep in good condition. Spray interior of stable and stall and see the flies go.

A Sure Preventive for Lice, Ticks and Vermin

A light application of Cow-Ease will relieve cattle from lice, also prevent ticks—the cause of Texas Fever. Cow-Ease is an excellent article for spraying the interior of hen houses, also roost and dropping board; it will prevent head lice and fleas and keep house in a sanitary condition.

HOW TO USE COW-EASE

The best way to use Cow-Ease is to apply same with one of our Cow-Ease Sprayers. These sprayers throw a very fine mist and it easy to direct this mist where it needs to go and at the same time the application is a light one, which is all that is necessary. In sultry weather a herd of milch cows should be sprayed twice a day. Only a very small quantity is required. If possible spray in the morning and at night before milking. Try a can on our guarantee.

For President,
William Howard Taft.

For Vice-President,
James Schoolcraft Sherman.

Chicago.—William Howard Taft again heads the Republican ticket for president.

James Schoolcraft Sherman is again the party's nominee for vice-president.

Mr. Taft was nominated on the first ballot at 9:30 Saturday night, receiving 561 votes, or 21 more than a majority of the votes in the convention.

Mr. Sherman was the only man placed in nomination for second place, and he received 597 votes. The rest were scattering or not cast.

Flattened out completely by what his advocates denominated the steam roller, Col. Theodore Roosevelt's candidacy was abandoned by that gentleman himself, and a few hours before the balloting on nominations he sent to the convention hall a request that his delegates should refrain from voting on any other questions whatever. This request was obeyed by 344 delegates, who responded "present but not voting." Of the others, 107 cast their votes for Roosevelt because they felt bound to follow the instructions of their constituents.

The vote of the convention on president is shown in the subjoined table:

Roosevelt Men Quit the Fight.

The story of the last day of the convention is one of much disorder, quarrels on the floor, sporadic bursts of enthusiasm, and, during part of the long session, swift work by the well-oiled Taft machine. Making their last futile fight on the seating of the contested Taft delegates from Washington and Texas, the Roosevelt delegates voted against the platform submitted by the committee on resolutions and then devoted themselves to rather riotous behavior, laughter at the Taft speakers and even at Chairman Root, and vigorous refusal to vote.

The colonel's advice to his forces was read to the convention by Henry J. Allen of Kansas and included a bitter denunciation of the actions of the Taftites. It was booed by the Taftites, but as the table shows, it was effective in most instances. Among states that disregarded request, Illinois stood out most prominently. That 52 of its delegates voted for the colonel was due to state political conditions. Pennsylvania created a diversion by casting two votes for Justice Hughes. In the mix-up Senator Cummins grabbed off seven unexpected votes—from Idaho. And La Follette also benefited by the conditions, getting five of South Dakota's votes, in addition to his 26 from Wisconsin and 10 from North Dakota.

Enthusiasm is Rather Mild.

If the truth must be told, the victory of President Taft did not create any wild enthusiasm in the Coliseum. Of course, there was a lot of cheering, and a banner bearing the picture of the winner was carried through the aisles, but no one followed it, and the tired spectators at once began to make their way out of the hall. Even the delegates could not be kept in their seats for the vote on "Sunny Jim." The reading clerks jumped about like crazy men trying to catch the vote in the midst of the din, and nobody cared very much whether or not they succeeded.

"This purges the party of a most disturbing element," said the Taft men, soberly.

"This is the death of the good old Republican party. Now for a new party—a party of progress," said the defeated friends of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

Such Democrats as were present said little, but looked joyful.

Taft Forces Win Every Point.

From the day when the national committee met to begin the hearing of contests, the Roosevelt forces never won a point of any moment. With all the machinery in their control, the Taft men did not let go of anything that could endanger their cause in the least. An instance of their clever work was the way in which the report of the committee on credentials was submitted to the convention. It came in to the hall piece-meal, a state or a district at a time. This enabled Chairman Root to make the eminently fair ruling that the delegates whose seats were involved in each fragment of the report should not vote on its adoption. It sounded good, but it was perfectly safe. On only one of these reports was the Taft majority reduced to a perilous point. That was the California case, considered one of the strongest brought up by the Roosevelt men, and the Taft vote was 542, just two over a majority.

On most of the reports the Roosevelt leaders did not demand a roll call. First would come the committee report. Then a minority report with a motion to substitute it. Next Chairman Root would turn to Jim Watson of Indiana, who would rise and move to lay the minority motion on the table. "Aye," would vote the Taft men, stolidly. "No-o-o" would come the long drawn out and loud response of the colonel's delegates. And to the tooting of "steam roller" whistles and the jeering laughter of the Roosevelt men would come the chairman's high pitched "The ayes seem to have it; the ayes have it."

Even Senator Root Smiled.

Even Senator Root himself could not always keep a straight face as this process went on. Once a colored Outside the Coliseum.

the front with cutting rebuke for the discourtesy shown the speaker. Coming all the way from Europe to second the nomination of his friend, Mr. Taft, John Wanamaker delivered an address that doubtless was very excellent. But only those close to him could hear his words. "He may be a fine merchant but he's no speaker," said Policeman Rafferty. "Why didn't he stay in Europe?"

There was considerable surprise at the silence of Iowa, in view of the hopeful talk of the Cummins shouters before the last session. But Wisconsin made up for this loss by sending Michael B. Olbrich, the boy orator of Madison, to the platform. Mr. Olbrich never entered an oratorical contest without emerging with the first prize, and at the Coliseum he endeavored to live up to this reputation. With mighty voice and gesture, he told the delegates all about the long and soul-wearying fight which had been made for progressive policies in government by a son of the Badger state. He called forth the repeated applause of the Wisconsin and North Dakota delegates and the shrill screams of approval of a young woman in the east gallery who continually pounded the bald head of a gentleman in front of her with a small flag. But that seemed to be the full measure of the results accomplished by Mr. Olbrich. He spoke for an unconscionably long time, and at last in response to repeated demands to "name your man" he sprang on the astonished audience the name of Robert Marion La Follette. Up leaped the Wisconsin 26 and, assisted by a few scattered knots of shouters, they managed to make a tremendous amount of noise for so few people. But then the young woman in the gallery helped immensely.

Taft Flaunted in His Face.

During Mr. Olbrich's speech two men made their way along the girders of the roof and let down a banner with Taft's picture upon it, so that the worthy president was staring the young orator in the face. The entire gathering resented this discourtesy loudly, but Chairman Root didn't mind nearly so much as he did the action of some Roosevelt men who, earlier in the day, flung from the north gallery a placard reciting his opinion of the Penrose machine in Pennsylvania. The latter manifesto was quickly removed by virtuously indignant policemen.

Incidentally, Mr. La Follette took an awful chance Saturday afternoon. He sent to Chicago and had read to the convention a statement to the effect that he did not approve the platform, and if he were nominated for president, he would not bind himself to make the race standing upon all the planks selected by the committee. But Mr. La Follette was not nominated.

Thursday and Friday were not very interesting days in the convention hall. On those days the work was being done in committee rooms and hotel conferences. Each night some radical plan would be fixed up and the next day it would be abandoned. First it was a bolt of all the Roosevelt delegates. Then it was a double convention. And again it was a policy of silent non-participation. There was no bolt; there was only one contention; there was nothing that even remotely resembled silence except the refusal to vote on the final ballots by the colonel's staunchest adherents.

Roosewater Prompt, But—

Victor Roosevelt, who as chairman of the national committee called the convention to order, was only three minutes late in pounding out with his gavel the announcement that the show was about to begin. The Omaha man looked pitifully small and weak, and could not make himself heard ten feet away from the platform. For fifteen minutes confusion reigned, and the chairman was unable to quell it. A little later, when the Roosevelt adherents were making their first fight by seeking to substitute their own temporary roll for that prepared by the national committee, Mr. Roosevelt piped feebly until some one shouted, "Speak up, little boy." Then he succumbed to the roar of laughter and let a clerk read his rulings.

It was no easy job keeping the great crowd in order, for while the delegates themselves were mostly grim and tense, apparently imbued with the idea that they were "making history," there were numerous skillfully placed enclaves in the galleries which interrupted the speakers at frequent intervals.

Hadley Commands Respect.

One man there was who was not subject to ribald interruptions and jeers. That was Governor Hadley of Missouri, the Roosevelt field captain. Whenever he arose he was accorded respectful attention and often hearty applause, for even his political enemies couldn't think up weak spots in his record with which to taunt him. "Bill" Flinn, another Roosevelt fighter, was not so fortunate, but he seemed to like the storm that raged about him and did not give an inch until squelched by the gavel. Senator Bradley of Kentucky, too, came in for a share of "boos" and hisses and was stirred to rage by many allusions to the fact that he had voted in favor of Lorimer.

"Heinie" Cochems in Action.

The little flurry in the Wisconsin delegation, caused by Mr. Houser's assertion that the delegation would not support Governor McGovern for temporary chairman, gave "Heinie" Cochems a chance to show some of the spirit which used to take him through an opposing football eleven. Cochems had placed McGovern in nomination, and all had gone swimmingly until Houser got up and protested that La Follette would not enter into any combination with any other candidate, and therefore the Wisconsin delegates should not support the Badger governor, who was the choice of the Roosevelt forces.

Up jumped "Heinie" and, being given two minutes, explained that the Wisconsin delegation in caucus had split on the question, but that he, as an individual La Follette delegate, had presented McGovern's name. "But," shouted Cochems, squaring his jaw, "I dare any progressive delegate from Wisconsin to vote for Root." And he made good, for when the ballot was taken thirteen Badgers voted for the governor and the other thirteen split up their votes among North Dakota men and Mr. Houser.

Howls for Heney.

For stirring up a tempest, Francis J. Heney was unequalled by any other man in the convention. He fought hard against the seating of the two Taft delegates from the Fourth district of California, and was howled at by the Taftite galleries. He bobbed up on various other occasions, notably in a long speech seconding the nomination of McGovern, and was howled and handkerchiefs and papers and howling at the top of their voices. California's golden Teddy Bear led the way, and New Jersey, Missouri and North Carolina followed close behind. West Virginia, Ohio and Oklahoma fell into line, and there was a mighty roar as "Bill" Flinn grabbed Pennsylvania's standard and led his followers past the front of the speaker's stand. Minnesota and Maine now joined the shouting procession, and people all over the hall began to say that if nominations were in order, it would be no trick at all to put the governor of Missouri at the head of the ticket.

Pretty Woman Increases Furore.

For a long time Governor Hadley stood smiling and helpless, with Jim Watson of Indiana by his side. Then they sat down, hopeless of stilling the tumult. Just as the shouters began to get a bit weary, a pretty young woman was spied in the front row of the west gallery wildly waving a big portrait of Colonel Roosevelt and yelling at the top of her musical voice. She Mrs. William A. Davis of Chicago, and her efforts were rewarded by a renewal of the uproar, which now changed to shouts of "We want Teddy." Certain of the colonel's publicity promoters, quick to seize upon the incident, made their way into the gallery and led Mrs. Davis downstairs and to the speaker's stand. She was boosted onto the platform, and, with the standards grouped in front of her, led the Roosevelt forces in a redoubled demonstration.

Finally the patience of Chairman Root and Sergeant at Arms Stone was exhausted, and the police were told to escort Mrs. Davis away with orders to resume her seat or leave the hall. She chose the former alternative.

Colonel Roosevelt Pleased.

During all this uproar there were constant rumors that the demonstration had been pre-arranged by the Roosevelt men, and that the colonel himself was on his way to the Coliseum. The latter part of this certainly was not true, for Colonel Roosevelt sat in his hotel room receiving bulletins on the proceedings. When he heard that there was something in the nature of a stampede for Hadley, he said: "I am glad of it."

Sergeant Depew looked on with great interest, and said he believed the demonstration was entirely spontaneous, and that it looked as though Hadley would be a third candidate.

The uproar lasted in all nearly an hour, and was decidedly diverting, but did not accomplish anything. For when it came to a roll call, the Taft forces tabled Deneen's motion with a vote of 564 to 610, thus showing an increased strength over the vote on temporary chairman of six votes. The entire delegation from Hawaii had shifted back to the Taft side.

More Threats of Ejection.

"Fighting Bill" Flinn again ran foul of Chairman Root and again the senator threatened to have him ejected from the hall if he did not show proper respect for the speakers. Flinn subsided with evident reluctance. While Thomas H. Devine of Colorado was arguing against the Deneen motion, W. H. Featherstone of the Texas delegation kept yelling at him. This aroused the ire of Senator Root. He walked to the front of the stage again.

"Gentlemen of the convention," said he, "I don't know whether you want to hear what is said on this serious subject, but I want to say to you (pointing to Featherstone) that, delegate or no delegate, if you don't preserve order the sergeant at arms will be directed to put you out."

Root was loudly applauded. Featherstone insisted he was merely trying to correct misstatements. The second day did not get the convention much farther on its way to nominations and adjournment. The fighting was continued, but the results were not such as to really inspire either the Taft or the Roosevelt forces with renewed hope of ultimate victory. Women Delegates Cheered.

California's two woman delegates—Mrs. Florence C. Porter of Los Angeles and Mrs. Isabella W. Blane of San Jose—cast the first national opinion votes ever given to members of their sex by any great political party. They went with the progressives, voting for McGovern, and as each rose to her feet to announce her choice she was cheered by the delegates and the audience.

Mrs. Porter was the first to vote. She spoke out loudly, and her voice could be heard distinctly on the rostrum. Mrs. Blane's answer was not so distinct, when her name was called, but the clerks managed to catch McGovern's name.

The cheering for the two women was not confined to any one section of the great hall. The McGovern men yelled the loudest, perhaps, because it was their candidate who got the women's votes, but the Taft people cheered also, out of courtesy, apparently. As for the audience, it was the novelty of the thing that won their enthusiasm.

"I did not mind it at all," said Mrs. Porter. "In fact, I enjoyed the experience. I was the first woman who had ever done anything of the sort, and when I got up I felt a good deal like a Joan of Arc. I was making history for the women of America, though in a slightly different way than Joan made it for France."

"O," said Mrs. Blane, "I just voted, that's all. Really, I can't recall how the experience affected me."

Flinn Threatened With Ejection.

Just after the vote on the temporary chairmanship had been announced and Senator Root had taken the gavel the convention hall witnessed a disturbance. It was ended only after Sergeant-at-Arms Stone had sent word to William Flinn and the members of the Pennsylvania delegation that unless they ceased "insulting the chairman" he would have them ejected from the hall.

Root had just begun his speech with the phrase, "Believe that I appreciate this expression of confidence," when the whole Pennsylvania delegation broke into jeers.

"You're a receiver of stolen goods," shouted R. R. Quay.

"Mr. Root," demanded Flinn, "are you willing to take this tarnished election—"

At this moment he was interrupted by another outburst of yells from the Pennsylvanians. Both Quay's and Flinn's words had been distinctly heard, however, by Root and all the delegates.

Sergeant-at-Arms Stone came running down the platform, megaphone in hand.

"Mr. Chief of Police," he shouted, addressing Assistant Chief Schuettler, "if any person on this floor again insults the chairman of this convention

Marching Through the Aisles.

I order you to eject him from the hall."

Stone was white with rage and glared at the Pennsylvanians as he spoke. The latter then subsided into quiet.

Leave Hall as Root Starts.

Mr. Root had scarcely begun his address before hundreds of spectators on the floor and in the galleries began to move out of the hall, noisily and hurriedly.

The senator suspended his speech and requested Sergeant-at-Arms Stone to ask those who wished to leave to go out at once.

"As soon as those desiring to leave have gone the senator will continue," shouted Stone through the megaphone, and the spectators began to crowd out. Mr. Root, scowling, resumed his place at the table. Senator Root's voice could not be heard half way down the hall. As the senator sat there "Bill" Flinn, with a cigar stub in the corner of his mouth and his straw hat jammed down on his head, climbed over the stage railing. He stepped up to Senator Root, shook hands, and conferred with him for several minutes, leaving just as Root resumed speaking.

When Mr. Root resumed the entire rear part of the floor and gallery was empty and those who remained to hear him crowded to the front and the empty seats were emphasized by the sharpness of the contrast.

Mr. Root continued his speech to a quiet and attentive audience. Here and there he elicited a ripple of applause, particularly when he touched upon the trust prosecutions of the Taft administration.

served until a suddenly efficient policeman discovered the trick and rushed the offenders to the door with a mighty roar.

Of all the nuisances with which the police had to contend, the assistant sergeants-at-arms were the worst. With nothing much to do, and nowhere to sit, these hangers on, numbering many hundreds, were in everyone's way. Sometimes the exasperated "cops" hustled them like ordinary citizens, to the delight of seat-holders.

Wild Demonstration for Hadley.

Hadley was the man of the second day's session—Hadley of Missouri. He had stepped forward to speak in support of Governor Deneen's motion which was designed to prevent the 73 contested delegates voting on their own cases, but before he could utter a word pandemonium broke loose. In a moment every Roosevelt delegate was on his feet shouting "Hadley, Hadley," and even the Taft cohorts could not keep their seats. Then the enthusiasts began to pull up their state standards and march with them, while the galleries leaped to their feet, waving hats

IS A SELF-LIGHTING BEACON

Keeperless Lighthouse on Main Coast That Needs Attention but Twice a Year.

The inverted cask which for more than half a century has surmounted the spindle on the top of the pyramid of rocks known as "the monument" in Belfast bay, marking Steele's ledge in Maine waters, has given way to a little "keeperless lighthouse"—an automatic acetylene gas light, which kindles itself as the sun goes down, and goes nearly out in the morning, requiring no attention for six months, when the storage tanks must be renewed.

Many gas buoys burn all day and all night, but this light is governed by a unique Swedish invention known as a "sun valve," which controls the flow of gas to a pilot jet. With the rising temperature of daylight the flow is cut off. Of course on cold and cloudy days the valve does not act as positively, but the saving in six months is considerable.

The light here is the first of the kind on this part of the Maine coast. The inventors claim that it will eventually take the place of many lights where keepers are now employed. It marks a dangerous ledge near the ship canal. It is a flashlight showing two seconds and dark three seconds, to distinguish it from the lights of the city, with which it is in range from some directions.

PREPARED.

"This is a roomy backyard of yours. You generally have a garden here, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Keep chickens?"

"After a fashion. I believe, though, my neighbor on the south intends to raise guinea hens this year. By the way, come into the house and I'll show you a noiseless gun I've just bought."

HAD ONE OF THEM.

One day, many years ago, the telephone in the office of the chief of police rang. Chief Speers answered. The call was from a new policeman on the Union avenue beat.

He said: "A man has been robbed down here, and I've got one of them!"

"Which one have you?" asked the chief.

The reply came back: "The man that was robbed!"

A Grim Reminder.
"Doctor," said the desperate heavy weight, "give me something to make me weigh less." "That sort of thing merely makes you dangerously ill." "I don't care if it does." "Very well. But I can't see why you should go to all that trouble merely to make labor a little lighter for your pallbearers."

She'd Keep It Dark.

No Games Tuesday.

For the second time this season all games in the Kitty league were prevented by rain. Rain fell in such quantities at Henderson, Evansville and Paducah, where games were to be played, that the grounds were too wet to play. Double headers will probably be played at all three places tomorrow.

TOM PAYNE

Former Hopkinsville Boy Dies In Colorado.

Thos. Payne, a former Hopkinsville young man of Amarillo, Texas, died yesterday of lung trouble. He left here about three years ago.
Mr. Payne was a brother of Mrs. H.
M. Dalton, of this city. The body will be brought here for interment.
He was a member of the Elks Lodge and the Baptist Church and was about 30 years of age.

Aviator's Drop.

Washington, June 24.—Paul Hamilton, an instructor at the United States army aviation school, College Park, Md., was perhaps fatally injured this evening in an aeroplane accident.

Hamilton was flying alone in a bi-plane and was up one hundred feet when the machine suddenly fell to the ground and was smashed to pieces. The aviator was pinned beneath the wreckage, but was quickly extricated by signal corps men. He was hurried to a hospital here where it was said his injuries might prove fatal.

The Gains of This Political Year.

Candidates will come and go, and parties will rise and fall with the decades or the centuries, but the political life of the people must go on, and their government must live and serve the ends of common justice and the general welfare. This struggle of 1912 is chiefly significant because of its relation to the great perennial movement for the betterment of human conditions through the improvement of the organs and instruments of government. What ever may have been the exact outcome of the Chicago and Baltimore conventions, there will be permanent gain to the people of the United States by reason of the struggles of 1912. In some of the States, the new primary laws have been imperfectly drafted. They can be greatly improved. It costs a good deal of money to operate these primary systems, and there are still some people who prefer to have our political arrangements made for us quietly by little groups of interested gentlemen, conspiring in secret. But the people of the country will not be induced to return to any such methods. The President of the United States is no longer a modest executive official, obeying the Constitution and seeing that the laws are enforced. He has become an arrogant ruler, exercising power in a more personal way and with more preferred effects than any other ruler on earth whether czar, emperor, sultan, king, president, or prime minister.
The people will no longer be content merely to choose in November between two candidates, one called "Republican" and the other called "Democratic,"—selected for them by hidden forces having interests of their own to be served. The people will insist upon having a part in the earlier selection of the candidates, as well as in the latter and final election of the President himself.

We have gradually come under a personal government; and since this means much to the people, they will insist upon selecting their ruler.—
From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for July.

The July American Magazine.

The leading feature in the July American Magazine is a new story by Rudyard Kipling entitled "The Benefactors." It is a story founded on the coal strike in England and is interesting because it presents with great power the reactionary's view of the thing. It is really a warning to labor.

A remarkable article in this issue of the magazine is the story of Caro-la Woerishoffer by Ida M. Tarbell.
Carola Woerishoffer was a rich New York girl who declined to live a life of luxury, and threw herself into certain useful activities with resultant interesting experiences and adventures which Miss Tarbell describes intimately and entertainingly.

Ray Stannard Baker, Senator La Follette, Walter Pritchard Eaton and Hugh S. Fullerton contribute other articles. Notable fiction is contributed by Kathleen Norris, Olive Higgens Prouty, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins and H. G. Wells.

Abe Martin, Indiana's funny man, writes a piece about the old-fashioned Fourth of July, and F. P. Dunne writes an amazingly able and moving editorial on the Titanic disaster.

Why Coat Lapels Have Nicks.

The following is said to be the story of the origin of the nick in the lapel of men's coat: When Napoleon first felt the sway of ambition he tried to implicate General Moreau in a conspiracy. Moreau had been Napoleon's superior and was exceedingly popular, but in the circumstances, with the man of Destiny in power, it was not safe to express public sympathy with Moreau. His armirers and supporters quietly agreed to nick their coat lapels to show their fellowship, the outlines of the coat after the nick was made forming the letter M.
